LANGUAGE CAMPS

LEARNING ENGLISH, FRENCH & DUTCH IN A FUN WAY

For kids & teens

Spring - Easter - Summer - Autumn - Christmas

In Belgium,
France &
England

Who is Roeland vzw

Roeland vzw is a nationally recognised youth organisation that organises French, English and Dutch language projects for children and young people aged between 7 and 21.

Our method: playful, creative language immersion.

Mission

Roeland's aim is to stimulate the development of kids and teens by helping them to master languages and instilling a love of languages in them.

Vision

Speaking foreign languages helps children to understand the world better and the world to understand them better.

What does Roeland vzw do (annual figures)

3.000+

Roeland exists 50 years and carries the title of 'Royal Society'

I cannot wait for the summer to arrive! I know, I am stating the obvious here. What an enormous cliché to open this preface with, but this year it applies more than ever...

Freedom beckons, the sun is out there, and I dream of seeing my friends again and going to camp.

I fill notebooks with scribbles of fun theme day ideas: Harry Potter? Wedding Day? Maybe a Dinosaur Day?

I practice my British accent.

I send a whatsapp message to our Sutton Town 4 Head Assistant, to find out if she happens to have a black eyepatch. That would really complete my fancy dress.

I am already compiling a playlist with songs I can dance to.

In eager anticipation, I look back at old camp photos of Sutton and Nieuwenbosch.

Just to make sure, I have already checked the weather forecast for July. It is obvious: the new Roeland season is in the air ...

And this year we really deserved it! All these months of keeping our distance, gazing at computer screens, wearing face masks, and staying indoors are behind us, so I suggest we form a pact.

Let us go crazy in 2022!

We will make it a summer to remember.

Do not get me wrong. Of course, as a volunteer, I am proud that we succeeded in organizing bubble camps, according with all the rules and regulations during the corona period. But I am really looking forward to organizing camps with all the trimmings: des excursions aventureuses, creative workshops, murder mystery games, olympic games, jeux d'eau, singing sessions... anything goes!

Do not forget to bring an extra set of clothes that can get a little dirty. And bring your costume for the closing party. Or was I not allowed to reveal that yet?

Oh, I cannot wait for the summer to arrive ...

See you very soon,

Marie Jacobs

2. Via a tax certificate

You can download the tax certificate for children under the age of 14. You will receive an email when this is available.

Experience languages!

Language immersion

You only learn a language by immersing yourself in it. That requires an effort from you, but be sure: the result will be spectacular!

At the Junior camps and at some English and French camps the animators speak only the target language. Through fun language activities they motivate you to do the same. You can still talk to your friends in your own language and every day there is a bilingual moment when the animators give you extra explanation in your own language. After one week of camp, you will have learnt quite a few words and will even be able to express yourself in short sentences. You can be proud of that!

If you are older than 12 and choose an immersion camp, you will be immersed in the foreign language straight away. The animators only speak the target language. During all activities they expect you to do the same. This may feel a little strange during the first few days, but it is the best way to learn a new language. You can make mistakes, even lots of them, as long as you try. The animators really appreciate that. And you will see, before you know it, you will be speaking quite a bit of French or English. We promise!

Workshops at your level

Boring language lessons? Not at all!

We opt for custom-made language workshops. During these workshops you actively work with the material you have learned at school. How do you do this? With video, games, sports, theater and playful assignments. A bit of grammar now and then is still on the menu, so that you know the correct basics.

In the workshops you are in a small group with participants who have the same language level as you. This gives you plenty of opportunity to speak French or English. The best and most fun way to learn a language.

Focus on speaking

Do you have an interesting hobby? Are you passionate about something? Do you have a pithy opinion about something? In our language workshops, you can tell us all about it! Do you have trouble finding the right words? You will notice that making mistakes is allowed. Everyone appreciates that you try and will always help you. So, go ahead and chatter away!

5 reasons for choosing Roeland

1. A wide variety of camps

Language vacations inland or abroad, from one week to up to 12 days, complete immersion camps or camps where you can still speak your native language, daytime camps, boarding camps, ... we are convinced we have something to your heart's content. In this brochure and on our website, you will find a wide variety of language vacations. Every choice is the right one, because fun is always guaranteed. And while you are busy having a good time you learn a new language. How cool is that?!

2. Learn in an everyday setting

Ask for seconds during lunch, talk about your hobby, buy a present on a field trip, understanding the rules of a challenging game, negotiating your way through casino night, enjoying a play ... you will hear and speak the language on a regular day basis. The absolute best way to learn and use a lot of new words and expressions!

3. Professional environment

You will meet awesome volunteers who stand for fun language labs, workshops, games en field trips. All the teachers are at least 18. They frequently consult with Roeland, to invent cool new activities, to update their didactic methods, ... The teachers are native or near-native speakers, so their Dutch, French or English is impeccable. They encourage you with enthusiasm to speak the target language. We provide 1 teacher for every 5 participants, to make sure everyone gets to speak the chosen language as much as possible. A personal approach that stands for the unique experience of a Roeland camp.

4. Lots of activities

Mountain biking in French? Staging a play in English? A day trip to Disneyland Paris? Canoeing in the Champagne region? Our camps connect with your life and interests. You will speak Dutch, French or English while you are having fun with new friends. Check out our wide variety of vacations in this brochure or on our website. You will definitely find something to your liking!

5. An 'A' for 'Ambience'

Everyone participates in the group activities, but your voice counts as well. And if something worries you, there is always someone on our team ready to listen. Our volunteers are always there to help you out.

“It never feels like school here at language camp”

“If my parents don’t stop me, my summer holidays would be packed with Roeland camps”, says Cara Van Lijsebetten (age: 16, photo: black sweater). In 2014, at the age of 9, she experienced her first language vacation in Poix- Saint-Hubert. Now she has 24 language camps on her résumé, in Belgium, France, and England.

Cara Van Lijsebetten studies modern languages and mathematics. “My choice was partly determined by my experiences at Roeland. Next year, I want to go to law school. My teachers advised me to follow these courses in two languages: Dutch and French.”

Where did you hear about Roeland?

“My dad also attended many language camps when he was a child. And my mom graduated as a French-German interpreter, so multilingualism runs in the family. When I was 9 years old, my mom was on the lookout for a language camp organization. After hearing a lot of positive things about Roeland, she signed me up for a French language vacation.”

“Why do I have to go to a language camp, I wondered. But from the first day I felt right at home. You have fun, and after a while you forget that you are expressing yourself in a foreign language.”

You attended camps in both French and English. Was that a deliberate choice?

“When I was at a French language camp at the age of 12, my parents signed me up for an English camp the week after. I did shed a tear and I was a little panicky at first, because I never spoke a single word in English before.”

“At first, I felt somewhat ill at ease, but the teachers immediately put my mind to rest. Just join the activities, and if you do not manage to say what you want you can still communicate with gestures. And the teachers always help you out.”

“For example, I had no idea how to ask to go to the toilet. The teachers had taught us how to use signs and gestures.

Language camps focus on daring to speak a foreign language. You quickly learn that making mistakes is okay.

It sounds ridiculous and sometimes the situation became a bit hilarious, but it’s actually great fun.”

Were your school results influenced by your Roeland experience?

“For sure. At school you memorize a lot of words and definitions, and grammar is simply hammered in. Language camps focus on daring to speak a foreign language. You quickly learn that making mistakes is okay, which helped me a great deal. The teachers notice that I am doing the best I can, and that I speak French and English quite fluently.”

“You get very actively involved with your language of choice at a Roeland camp. You play games, follow workshops, go on field trips... and in the meantime, you learn a new language without even thinking about it. A Roeland camp never feels like school.”

What is your best camp memory?

“Not only did I learn foreign languages at camp, but it also enriched me as a person. There is no prejudice: everyone wants to attain the same goal, so you can really be yourself. And I am incredibly grateful to Roeland for all of that. I met some of my best friends at a Roeland language camp.”

You have fun, and after a while you forget that you are expressing yourself in a foreign language.

“A language camp really boosts their self-confidence”

Goal-oriented communication, creativity and a learning experience tailored to the needs of our participants: Roeland uses these three didactic principles as a solid foundation. Jonathan Delmeire, Pauline De Baets and Tom Vandeveldel talk about how they implement this trinity of teaching methods at our camps.

“What does your superhero look like and what are his or her superpowers? It is just an example of a task our participants work with at camp, to practise how to describe a person”, says Jonathan. “After they compose their ideal superhero, they compare him or her with the other creations: which superhero is the fastest runner, which one is the biggest, which one has the most gadgets, ...? The task ends with a real contest. It is a great way for our participants to learn how to speak in a foreign language, without inhibitions.

Three didactic principles

Pauline De Baets, deputy general co-ordinator: “The difference between Roeland and traditional language lessons is found in our playful, creative and active approach. We believe it is especially important that learning does not exclude having fun.

Our language labs emphasize on playfulness, and our participants are divided into compact groups to secure a personal approach.”

Jonathan Delmeire, former co-ordinator didactics: “We focus intensively on communication. The students are encouraged to speak as much as they want. The teachers don’t teach in a classic sense: they moderate the debates, they guide the plays and games, ...”

Tom Vandeveldel, co-ordinator didactics: “We really believe in what we do. The participants learn about what they like, and they do so by speaking a foreign language all day long. If we visit a city the next day, they ask questions about what we are going to see there. If they are about to play a new game, they will want to learn about the rules and how to win it. It’s a great way to involve them profoundly in our language courses.”

Dare to speak

Pauline: “Our participants have to speak in a foreign language from day one. Some of them are a bit afraid of that at first, but we keep our activities playful and amusing to take away that fear, while we encourage them to speaking the new language. They learn that making mistakes is okay. Even if they make the same mistake for the umpteenth time, our teachers correct them with a smile."

Tom: "During meals, the teachers eat with the children. They pick their place at the table so that every teacher can join in on the conversation of 10 to 12 children. We never miss an opportunity to assist the children in their learning process."

Jonathan: "Because of that personal approach, the teachers get to know the children very well. The teachers include the less outspoken children by asking them about their hobbies, if they enjoyed lunch, what they learned that day ... The chill mood at the camp combined with the professional guidance lowers the threshold for speaking and boosts the confidence of all our students."

Didactic innovation

Jonathan: "Our didactic material has been completely renewed these last couple of years. We want to keep ourselves up to date with the interests of today's youth, and we also want our didactic principles represented in all our camps. Besides that, we want to support our volunteers all the way, so they feel at liberty to develop new ideas and to put them to the test. We value their freedom to create and try out new things."

Pauline: "We also focussed strongly on a new way to split up our students in matching groups. Every camp now starts with a 'get to know you' game, the perfect setting for our teachers to assess the language skills of our participants in a friendly, playful way."

Tom: "We also organize multiple training sessions for our volunteers every year, where Didactics is a recurring topic. It is the perfect way for our volunteers to exchange new ideas and to stay up to date. A lot of our volunteers are schoolteachers or trainees, and Roeland feels strongly about coaching them on a permanent basis."

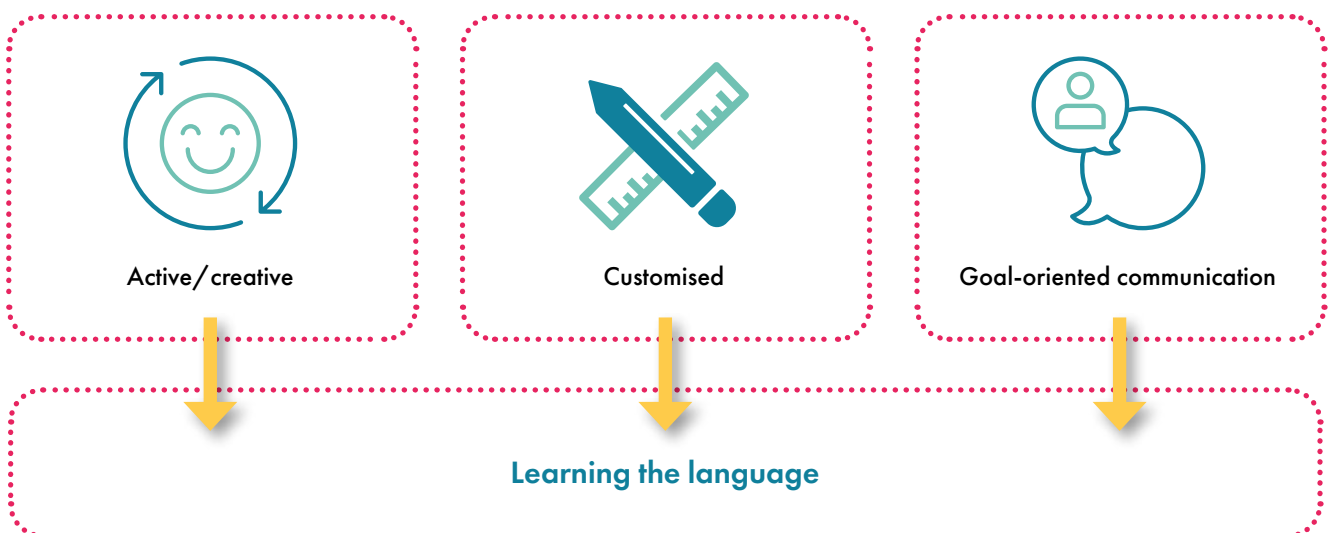

Roeland versus school

Pauline: "A Roeland language lab picks up where formal schooling stops. Students pick up a lot of grammar at school, but there is less time to practice in a natural environment. That is precisely what we do at our camps, because our participants are being fully immersed in the language of their choice and stay in close contact with native speakers. It's the perfect addition to the lessons at school."

Jonathan: "The participants experience quickly that a language camp is the perfect place to speak uninhibited in a natural setting, a tremendous boost for their self-confidence."

Tom: "Roeland shows our participants that speaking a foreign language is extremely useful and a lot of fun on top of it."

NEW Premiers pas en français | Stenay

Are you older than 12? Would you like to learn your first words of French, but do you think language immersion might be a bit too tough? Then this camp would be ideal for you: cool language labs, activities, sports, excursions and more. You are allowed to talk in your mother tongue now and again, but we do encourage you to speak French as much as possible.

This is a new concept for Roeland. This is a camp for young people who have not yet started French at school or who are finding French very tricky. That's why you don't have to speak the target language all the time on this camp. The teachers will speak French all the time and will make sure that by the end of the camp you will have learned plenty.

“The language labs are about what we like”

“You can speak a new language really quick when talking and making mistakes”, says Anaïs Larue (age 17). Between 2016 and 2020 she went to 3 camps in Ghent and last summer she tagged along as a trainee activity leader for the first time.

“I like all the Roeland songs”, she says. “As stupid as it may sound to an outsider, these songs really are a part of camp life, and they are a tremendous help when it comes to learning a language. I still know most of the songs by heart and now and then I listen to them again, just to stir up memories.”

“It happens that I’m not sure if a certain word needs a definite or indefinite article. I start to sing a song where that word appears in the lyrics, so I can find out what I was looking for. It really works for me!”

Was it your choice to join a camp or did your parents decide?

“My mother asked me if I was interested in going to a language camp when I was 12. I already juggled the idea of going to a school where the main language is Dutch. So, I signed up for a language camp. I did not switch schools then and there because I felt a little insecure. But last year, before entering the fifth grade of secondary school, I leapt. I now speak Dutch well enough to follow the courses in my new school.”

What is the main difference between a Roeland language lab and a lesson at school?

Anaïs: “It’s like comparing apples with oranges. At school I know beforehand what we are going to learn that day. It is a fixed program. At camp it is more about what we want to learn. The language labs start from our personal interests. The teachers have lunch with us, crack jokes, participate in the games we play... that is a lot of fun.”

Two weeks of language vacation feel like a dream to me.

What is the nicest Roeland memory you can think of?

“When I think Roeland, I think ambiance. Two weeks of language vacation feel like a dream to me. It’s a carefree time, we’re enjoying ourselves all day long and I get to meet extraordinary, nice people there.”

“I broke my foot 2 months before the start of the camp I signed up for. I was afraid that I would not be able to participate, but the teachers assured me that I was more than welcome at camp. I was hampered in my ability to move freely, but nevertheless they found ways to include me in all the activities. I had a whale of a time and I think it proves that Roeland takes care of everyone”.

Every single day we do the best we can, from daybreak until late at night.

“I still get goosebumps when I hear the children sing our songs in French”

“As a volunteer at Junior French you don’t have to choose between being a teacher or an activity leader. Here you can be both. It’s something I really like.” Laura Debie (age 28) started eight years ago at Roeland as a teacher, she became head of project for a few years and now she is working as head of didactics.

Laura: “When I was studying Dutch and French language and literature my niece was a volunteer at Roeland, and she told me I should give it a try. After one weekend of training, I joined three camps that summer.”

What do you gain from being a volunteer?

“It helps me to make progress on a creative level. I used to think of myself as not being that inventive, but you can learn a lot from other people when you work together. I teach French and sometimes I integrate the Roeland method (which is learning in a playful and creative manner) into my lessons at school. The students love that approach.”

What do you like as a volunteer?

“It’s great to see the children flourish while having fun. Some of them are a bit afraid of speaking a foreign language at first, but at the end they have overcome that barrier with flying colors.”

What do you dislike as a volunteer?

“Sometimes I suffer from fatigue. Every single day we do the best we can, from daybreak until late at night, because we want everything to be just perfect. That isn’t always easy when you really need your sleep.”

What is your best camp memory?

“The songs we sing together with the children. I keep getting goosebumps when I hear how the participants can sing them perfectly after a few days. And I also really like ‘le moment dodo’. That’s a play we put on before bedtime. I love to do that, it’s something the children really enjoy as well.”

It’s great to see the children flourish while having fun.

What advice do you have for potential volunteers?

“To join a group of Walloon teachers as a Flemish person was a big step for me. Will they understand what I’m saying, will I be able to keep up with them were some of the thoughts that haunted me during my first camp. And most of the teachers have rather outgoing personalities while I am more of a quiet person. I was a bit afraid of that at first, but they all turned out to be super nice people. So just give it a try and if it isn’t for you there’s nothing to regret.”

What is your greatest Roeland wish?

“I hope that Roeland will be around for a long time to come. I would love to see my own children go to a Roeland camp.”

“The children on our camps say our personal approach stands out from other experiences they had because so much is invested in them. At Roeland it’s a no-holds-barred adventure to give everyone a fantastic week. And in the meantime, they learn how to speak French. That is simply... well, beyond words.”

“The animal farm has to come to our camp”

“If the pandemic prevents us from going to the animal farm with our students, then the animal farm has to come to our camp”. Meysa Boughir, volunteer at the Dutch language camp for newly arrived children who speak a foreign language, came up with the idea. “It turned out to be an unforgettable experience!”

“Meysa smiles: ‘A lot of the children at our camp did not yet know how to name the common farm animals. That is why we went with the ‘animal farm’ theme. Over the course of three intensive days, our participants learned practically everything there is to know about farm animals, in an active yet playful way’.

Animal farm or zoo?

“We brought some prints of animals, a mix of animals who live at a farm or in a zoo. Initially, the children had to guess where the animal lives. Afterwards, we played a quiz which they really loved because of the competitive element. We also made masks that resembled an animal’s head. Of course, we sang some songs and staged a play, all connected to the animal theme.”

“We promised the children a visit to the animal farm, and obviously they were a bit disappointed when we told them that wasn’t an option because of the covid rules. But luckily the activities we invented as an alternative made them quickly forget about the visit.”

Speaking in a foreign language

“Playing along, listening to the children’s stories, being cheerful ... the children really appreciate all of it. I see to it that every child gets involved to ensure it stays fun for everyone. When I am on a break, I play football or skip rope with them. The children like that a lot. And while we’re playing, I let them speak Dutch all the time.”

Since 2008, Roeland has been organising day camps for foreign language newcomers. The target group is children and young people who have recently arrived in Ghent. The children learn Dutch in a playful way and discover the leisure possibilities on offer in Ghent. In this way, Roeland reaches approximately 150 young people of 30 different nationalities each year.

Since 2018, we have also been organising Brede School, day camps in Dutch for children with a language delay. This project runs in partnership with Stad Gent & OCMW Gent.

BECOMING A VOLUNTEER?

If you are good at languages, creative, enthusiastic and dynamic and you would like to share your passion for languages, you would make a great Roeland language coach! Fun times guaranteed!

From age 16: 'Animator in het jeugdwerk'

Fool around, play hard and learn the tricks of the trade at the same time. Does that sound good to you? During the 6-day 'Animator in het Jeugdwerk' course, you'll learn how to get on with children and young people, make games, prepare workshops and fill in those dreaded silences. After this, you will do an internship at one of our language camps during the Easter or Summer holidays. If you are successful, you will then receive the 'Animator in het jeugdwerk' certificate.

This is for anyone who:

- Wants to be an activity leader on one of our French, English or Dutch language camps
- Wants to get the 'Animator in het Jeugdwerk' Certificate (recognised by the Flemish authorities)
- Will be at least 16 years old in the summer of 2022.

Price: 295 euros

Date: 29/10 - 3/11/2022

From 18 years: Roeland Training Weekend (NL, FR and EN)

If you are fluent in French or English, why not join in with our French or English language vacations as a language instructor? Or would you prefer to go on a Dutch camp? We are looking for enthusiastic language instructors for our Dutch language holidays for French speakers as well as for our non-residential Dutch courses for newcomers who do not speak the language and who do not speak Dutch at home.

During our training weekends you will learn about our teaching methods and take part in workshops which will teach you how to plan interactive lessons, organize sports activities and more.

Price:

50 euros for a weekend with one overnight stay, including meals

Dates:

- 19/03 - 20/03

Training weekends will be held in Gent.

7 Good Reasons to become a Language Instructor:

1. You will gain lots of experience in the fields of youth work and language education.
2. Once you have qualified as an instructor, Roeland will offer you regular training and workshops free of charge.
3. You will improve your French or English
4. You will be learning about pedagogy and the theory behind teaching
5. It's a great addition to your C.V.
6. You will receive a volunteer's allowance
7. You will make lots of new friends!
